

At J & C Behavioral Therapy, LLC, we pride ourselves on a client-centered approach to every aspect of service. We recognize that no child learns the same way and that the most effective results are achieved by tailoring treatment to each individual.

Our staff of Board Certified Behavior Analysts believes that catering to the specific needs and goals of each child begins with relationship building. By developing each child's web of relationships, the opportunities for growth and progress flourish.

What separates J&C from other Behavioral Therapists is our focus on fully integrating services so that each touch-point in a child's life is consistent with his or her individualized program. We devote unparalleled effort to facilitating parent/staff training, engaging in IEP meetings and collaborating with related professionals to ensure an all-encompassing approach to treatment.

Each child's case begins with our BCBAs gathering comprehensive information during initial assessments including parent/teacher interviews, behavioral observations, functional testing, ABLLS-R, and other applicable data sources. All programs are then developed using the least restrictive and most evidence-based methods. Our BCBAs are fully invested in the ongoing progress of each child and compile data-backed assessments to guide program development and measure the effectiveness of treatment. In cases where progress is not seen modifications to treatment are made and implemented. In addition, we promote child growth by generalizing skills to real-life settings in the home, school, and community.
